DEAR SIR,

Please send me the report af your society for 1892 (or 1892 —93) at as early a date as possible, that I may get the statistics, which I intend to publish next year, as correct and complete as possible.

For the reports, which you have been so kind as to send me, I thank you heartily.

Please receive these statistics.

With kind regards very truly yours

Missions to the Heathen in 1890 and 1891.

THE following tables are compiled for the most part from the annual reports and magazines of foreign missionary societies with some aid from secretaries of these societies. In some cases it has been impossible to obtain reports, or reports themselves have been defective. In such cases a "." has been placed indicating such items to be missing, or the item has been supplied from reports of earlier years and has then been printed in Italic.

All the statistics given relate to missions among the heathen; therefore it has been necessary, as some missionary societies (English and especially American) have agencies among Christians to reduce their summary accordingly. Turkey and Egypt are only mentioned, where work among Musselmans is done: perhaps we should have been even more strict in this respect. From the income of such societies the expense of missions to Christians has been subtracted. On the other hand, we have included missions to North American Indians, which, in the United States, are carried on by Home Missionary Societies. All missionary work among Indians, Chinese and Japanese residents in the United States being called home missions, and all missionary work in foreign countries being called foreign missions by the American people, we have been obliged to disregard this and report missions to the heathen as foreign missions, or we might justly be called upon to report all mission work in the British colonies as home missions. The missionary work among the Negroes in the British West Indies being called missions to the heathen by some societies, we have tried to make equitable representation in our statistics, but it has been a difficult, sometimes almost impossible task to accomplish.

Some missionary societies (the American and Moravian especially) count the wives of their missionaries as female missionaries. In some cases this may by correctly done, but we do not believe it can be justified as a rule; we have, therefore, returned only unmarried female missionaries.

It cannot be ascertained if all native pastors are ordained — in some reports it does not appear that any are — so that we have made returns of all preachers.

From „Helpers" (which name is not always understood in the same way in different reports) all heathen teachers are excluded.

"India" includes the whole of British India with Ceylon and Burmah.

The financial year being not always the same in all societies, we have followed this rule — that 1890 is the year 1889—90 or 1890—91 according as the largest number of months have been reckoned in either of them. Therefore, in some cases 1890 goes on to the end of June 1891 and 1891 to the end of June 1892.

1892 I published statistics for 1889 and 1890 and should it be possible, I hope to publish such statistics next year for 1891 and 1892. If a series of returns can be carried on in this way, say for ten years, then valuable material will be collected, from which a complete set of missionary statistics could be compiled.

Where the items for the same year in the issue of last year are different from those in this review, the latter are the more correct.

Cast a glance over these very imperfect statistics, and see how the foreign mission work grows from year to year. In some items great progress has been made. May the Lord continue to give progress, not only extensional but internal, and may He accept and own this little essay as contributory to that and His own glory.
